OUR MEMORIES OF YESTERDAY

U.S.A. June 1981-1982 3-pages

Fairy Tale Wedding

Everyone's fairy tale wedding came true as Prince Charles married Lady Diana Spencer on July 29, 1981. The day started off with a carriage processional to the cathedral. Lady Diana walked down the aisle in her designer gown which had a 25-foot silken train. The vows were exchanged and after a 70 minute ceremony, Lady Diana began her reign as The Princess of Wales. One of the highlights of the post-wedding ceremonies was the exchange of a gentle kiss on the balcony of Buckingham Palace. As the day drew to a close the Prince and Princess of Wales left for their cruise on the royal yacht, leaving many with the dream of their own fairy tale wedding.

The Shuttle

On November 19, 1981 at 10:10 a.m. EST, the shuttle began its second flight into space. Columbia's take-off had a few minor problems, but managed to launch after an eight day delay. About ten minutes into flight the Columbia began experiencing a series of minor problems which forced NASA to revert to a "minimum mission," 54 hours instead of the planned 124. In the end, Columbia's abbreviated mission dissipated very little of its glory and NASA vowed to fly future shuttles even if they suffered more severe problems than this one. It didn't take NASA long to fulfill its vow and send the Columbia on its third flight. For the first time a space-shuttle mission began on the day planned as Columbia lifted off only an hour behind schedule. After having a smooth flight, the shuttle experienced only minor landing problems due to the weather. As the third flight came to an end, plans were already being made for Columbia's flight number four.

Death on the Potomac

In January of 1982, in the streets of Washington, a heavy, swirling snowstorm had afternoon traffic at a standstill. Suddenly, a blue, green, and white jetliner loomed out of the opaque sky losing altitude fast and heading straight for a crowded bridge. The Boeing 737 was the first U.S. airline crash in two years. 79 people were aboard and only five survived. What happened to Flight 90 is still a matter of conjecture. It is unsure if negligence of weather was the main cause. But whatever the cause, Americans were saddened by the loss of many lives. Robert Frost once wrote that "Some say the world will end in fire, some say in ice," for the dead of Flight 90 it ended in ice.

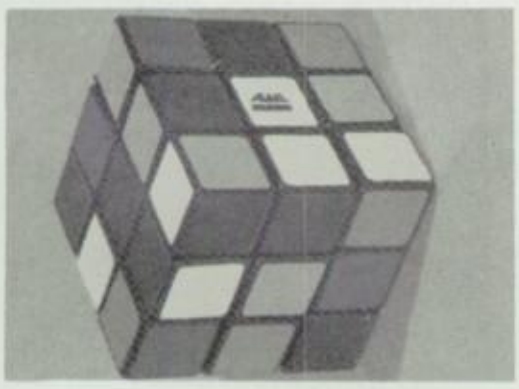
Dozier's 42 Days in a Tent

U.S. General James Dozier had just come home and was chatting with his wife when Red Brigade terrorists clubbed him in the head and whisked him away in a Fiat van. It was the first kidnapping of a military official in Italy since World War II. There was little hope for Dozier's safe return. Forces had never before traced a Red Brigade's kidnap hide-out or freed one of its hostages.

An Italian anti-terrorist group called the Leatherhead immediately began the search for General Dozier. Following up on every lead detectives identified Dozier's prison and 12 hours later the Leatherheads launched their raid. No shots were fired, five terrorists were arrested and Dozier was a free man. After having spent 50 days in a pup tent, Dozier had spirit and in a speech stated that his capturer was, "Just one small sacrifice for freedom."

POLAND'S ORDEAL

Poland, which is a communist block country, was thrown into a crisis this year. Poland had a very poor economic condition. These conditions caused the Soladarity Labor Party to rebel against the government by demonstrating. The government then declared Martial Law, and called out the military to restore stability. Martial Law had many tough rules and regulations which were very hard to live by. The Soladarity then revolted against Martial Law. In this revolt they went on strike and destroyed equipment in factories. The aims of this revolt were better economic conditions, and a government which had elected officials. With no end in sight, the Poland crisis continued.



CRAZES

All over America children as well as adults have gone wild over various products on the market this past year. People have purchased items anywhere from plastic figurines and stuffed animals, to a rotating cube. Yes! You guessed it, people have the Smurf, Garfield, and Strawberry Shortcake craze.

Another disease plaguing America is Pac-Man Fever. Americans spend their hard earned quarters to see Pac-Man eat up its enemies.

Sitting around to turn a rotating cube is another craze. The Rubik's cube entered many homes this past year. The object is to get the colors to match on all six sides.

As people buy these products, they are all having a Smurf of a good time.

Deaths

All over the world hearts were saddened by the deaths of John Belushi, Natalie Wood, and Anwar Sadat.

The tall, sleek brunette, Natalie Wood died at the age of 43 on November 29, 1981. She was a drowning victim. Natalie starred in many movies which made her famous, such as, WEST SIDE STORY, MIRACLE ON 34TH STREET, and REBEL WITHOUT A CAUSE. She was married to the famous actor Robert Wagner, and was the mother of two children.

Next was the death of the funny, hilarious, and loved by everyone actor, John Belushi. He died suddenly at the age of 33 on the morning of March 5, 1982. The death was due to a drug overdose. He starred in the late night comedy SATURDAY NIGHT LIVE. He also was the second half of the well-known Blues Brothers. Another part of his life were his movie rolls in ANIMAL HOUSE and 1941. His many talents will be remembered for many years.

"An act of infamy," was the quote used to express President Reagan's feelings toward Anwar Sadat's assassination. Sadat was presiding over an extravagent military show in Cairo, Egypt when a junior lieutenant in crisp, khakis and a blue beret stepped from a truck and walked toward him. Sadat rose, expecting a salute. Instead, the young officer tossed a grenade. A band of accomplices then scrambled from the back of a truck, flinging concussion and fragmentation grenades and firing submachine guns. Sadat gasped and fell, mortally wounded in a bloody jumble of overturned chairs. Anwar was admired and loved by everyone and his death was a very shocking and sad happening. Many tears were shed at Anwar Sadat's funeral, and the epitaph inscribed on Sadat's tombstone summed up all the worlds feelings, "President Mohammed Anwar Sadat, hero of war and peace. He lived for peace and he was martyred for his principles."

Huskers Romp Sooners!

The dream of every Nebraska football fan came true on a cold and blustery day in November when the Nebraska Cornhuskers beat the Oklahoma Sooners 37 to 14 in Norman, Oklahoma. In the beginning it looked as if the Sooners were up to their old tricks as they took the opening kickoff and marched 80 yards in only six plays to score. But the Huskers fought and didn't let them score again until the third quarter, when we had a 24 to seven advantage. Eddie Neil of Nebraska scored three field goals, which tied the school's regular-season single-game record. Two touchdowns were scored by Phil Bates, who rushed for 75 yards in 12 carries. Roger Craig and Mitch Krenk each scored single touchdowns. Craig's came on a 19 yard run with two seconds left in the first quarter. Nebraska then had the lead and never relinquished it.

The Huskers secured this great win without quarterback Turner Gill. Turner's replacement was Mark Mauer, who had not started since the fourth game of the season. Nebraska finished the regular season with a 9 to two record, and were the Big Eight Conference Champions.

After its slow start, Nebraska had a banner year and we hope the success continues next year for Coach Tom Osborne and the Nebraska Cornhuskers. Go Huskers!

Reviewing The News

The 81-82's brought many national happenings. Jim Brady, after being shot protecting President Reagan, made a brave comeback. Argentina and Great Britain went to war over the Falkland Islands. The world found itself in a recession with the unemployment rate rising as the year went on. President Reagan's budget plan was a big controversy throughout the year causing Reagan's popularity to rise and fall, depending on the mood of the country. Two months after the royal wedding Princess Diana and Prince Charles announced that they were expecting their first child. Ground Zero Week brought many groups together protesting against nuclear weapons. San Francisco 49'ers beat the Cincinnati Bengals in the 1982 Super Bowl. It was a first time visit for both teams. As the world hits a bottom proverty level, the 82's leave Americans frightened of the future and searching for something to put their hope in.

WORLD SERIES?

The Series was up for grabs . . .

Baseball like many other sports has a finale. A finale which ends with the greatest honor a team could achieve. Each team strives to accomplish this, but only one can win the World Series.

The baseball season is loved by many, although this year was an upset to thousands of people. Early in the season the baseball players, managers, and team owners put an abrupt halt to many games with a free agent strike. Many diamonds were soundless from cheers as well as the boos. The scoreboards showed no sign of action and the seats were empty. The strike lasted for weeks on end. Finally, the players and other people involved agreed to the same basic ideas. The season continued as each team tried even harder now to make-up to their fans for the time lost. The games closed in on them to the deciding factor of who would go to the World Series.

Games, games, games, and more games. Swinging into the series the National League was won by the Los Angeles Dodgers. The New York Yankees claimed the American League title. The Series started with games one and two which the Yankees won over the Dodgers, but as the Series rolled on the Dodgers came back with a win of five to four. When game four was played, it took three hours and 32 minutes. The Dodgers won again putting the Series tied at two to two. In game five the Dodgers and Yankees each played their hearts out. But as everyone knows, only one can win the world pennant. The Dodgers were the world champions winning the best of five games, two to one over the Yankees, at Yankee Stadium in New York.

"HOW?"

STAFF

FACULTY

Beginning the 1981-1982 school year students found many new faces in a lot of the old places. The rookies had a pretty big line-up considering the returning lettermen were of small number but mighty. The starting line-up for the new teachers was: Craig Johnson, 5'5", history teacher, head basketball coach, and assistant football coach. A future replacement for Mr. Johnson will be Erma "Magic" Johnson, but for now she is known as Baby Erma.

Next on the line-up is Theresa Caires, 5'6", the music director. She was noted for speaking foreign languages while conducting the plays.

Rene Nienaber was next on the long list, at 5'6". English was her main field with plays and speech on the side-lines. Whenever someone would ask her a question, she would answer saying, quote, "That's irrelevant!"

Louise Gustin was a starter in the mathematics field, but as she got sick in the second week of the first quarter her starting was off and on. Her substitute, Mrs. Jackie Koch, 5'7", was a great replacement for the rest of the semester.

Laurel Roth, 5'8", proved to be equal in ability as he replaced Mrs. Koch in the mathematics department.

Donita Lampshire, 5'9", proved to have quite a good attitude! She started as business instructor and basketball coach.

Mullins, 5'11", took over the job of instructing and conditioning the students.

Last but not least for the rookies was Tammie Torgrude, 5'7". Students had quite a time with her name at first. She was mainly on the team for home economics, but she contributed her knowledge in annual staff.

Then we come to the returning lettermen. Mr. John Brabec who is 5'4" had the science position. He always had trouble trying to find his fans, they seem to have hid in the library whenever he turned his back on them. He was often quoted saying, "Quiet down, right now!"

Mr. Gordon Etlemaki was next on the lettermen line-up at 6'0". His mathematical ability came in handy to figure out the other team's game plan. Due to his spiking ability, he was able to keep the faculty team in close competition with the volleyball girls.

A good reader is always needed on every team, and Mrs. Elaine Mehling, 5'10", librarian, filled the bill as she aided the team by confiscating the other team's playbook.

Mrs. Marianna Schilling, 5'10", social studies instructor, was an anxious onlooker because she was benched for a muffler burn which she tried to hide with band-aids.

Drawing out the plays was the assignment given to Mrs. Petersen, 5'7", the art instructor. She was a great addition to the returning lettermens team.

They're DeLIGHTful

Staff

The school year of 81-82 was run by superintendent, Bert Bennett, and principal Milton Carter. It was a good year with only minor problems plagueing the administration, such as the small leaks in Mr. Carter's office, but he remedied that problem with the use of an umbrella. The secretary's had some photographic problems. The annual staff took their picture an average of two times weekly. They weren't sure what the problem was, the secretaries or the annual's photographic abilities. After six blank films, the annual staff decided to save money and take the matter into their own hands. (We are sure you can tell the two apart!)

Hunger was never a problem during the school year. Nancy Novak, Frieda Hermelbracht, and Ellen VanKirk served excellent meals with the favorites being pizza, spaghetti, and excellent garlic bread.

Keeping the school together and the heater running, without a single breakdown, and the sidewalks clear of snow was our all around SUPER Marvin VanKirk. Marvin has been with the school for many years and seems to always be on top of things.

To sum up the annual feelings about the super administration, they composed the following poem:

The school is run by many faces,
who are always in their assigned places.
But the running of the school did fall,
on those who were on the ball.
Mr. Bennett was number one,
who after this year his job was done.
When he is gone we'll all be blue.
Because to the school he was so true.
Mr. Carter was number two,
and there wasn't anything he wouldn't do.
Soon a P.E. teacher he will turn,
and athletic skills the kids will learn.
The secretary's became camera shy,
and the annual staff knows the reason WHY.
As this poem comes to an end,
we're sure we've started a "groovy" trend.

They had many exciting times in P.E. and of their many memories, one of them is of Mrs. Simonsen playing Tarzan. Even though the class was small, they all had a good time working together.

The fifth grade had an exciting year with their trip to Lincoln. The third, fourth, and sixth grades also went along. While in Lincoln, they toured the Governor's Mansion, and the Capitol. They also went to the Nebraska Football Stadium, where they were able to run across the field. Another trip was also planned to go to Wayne to see a play. The whole class was enlightened when they got to borrow the sixth grade's turtle, Herbie, for two days.

SEVENTH GRADE

The seventh graders year started out a lot different, from having only one teacher to having a variety of teachers. Their officers chosen for the year were Michael Krieg as President, Glenn Greenfield as Vice-President, Sherri Doht as Treasurer, and Michele Nolting as Secretary.

The seventh grade girls did many interesting things in art, such as figurines, tempra paintings, and linoleum block paints. The boys made straw sculptures, designed models of rockets, and also made acrylic paintings.

Seventh graders also came involved in various activities which they had been looking forward to for many years. These were to include both girls and boys: basketball, junior high chorus, and high school band and jazz band.

In mid-December one of their classmates, Kenny Edwards', home was stricken by fire. The entire class came to the rescue with a donation to help the family through their misfortune.

This was their only year at Bancroft Junior High, because they will be attending Rosalie next year. But they can always look forward to coming back to Bancroft for their high school years.

Their sponsor for the year was Mrs. Schilling. They set their dues at $1.00 per semester.

EIGHTH GRADE

The eighth grade started out the year with the election of officers. Curtis Abendroth was elected President, Steven Grone as Vice-President, Heidi Raasch as Secretary, and David Raasch as Treasurer. Their sponsors for the year were Miss Torgrude and Miss Caires. As not to burn any holes in their pockets, they decided to pay $1.25 a semester as their class dues. This money was later put toward a class sponsored skating party, near the end of the year.

There was much competition for the four positions on the junior high cheerleading squad, with almost every girl in the class trying out. The four receiving these spots were: Amy Abendroth, Penny Beutler, Wendy Carter, and Angie Freiberg.

Toward the middle of the year the class hit a sour note as Sarah Smith made a move to Colorado. "We miss you, Sarah!"

In their art classes, they enjoyed such things as acrylic painting, which the boys seemed to be exceptionally good at, and string art. The girls were also involved in making linoleum blocks and other various crafts.

In home ec, the girls tried their hand at sewing sleepwear. While in shop the boys made foot stools, gun racks, and letter holders.

The year came to an end with the entire class looking enthustiastically toward their up and coming high school year.

GROUPS

Behind The Scenes

The Annual Staff started the year with 18 enthusiastic members and ended the year with four tired but proud workers. The first deadline was March 29 and the first pages were sent out March 27. These pages were not done easily in sub-zero indoor temperatures but with coats on and hot chocolate in hands the annual staffers completed the pages.

The agony of the first deadline brought many promises from the annual staff members. They would never again be rushed to meet a deadline. The day before school was dismissed the members began wondering, "Have we finished the pages for the second deadline?" Needless to say no pages were started so for 1½ weeks after school was dismissed the last of the annual staffers completed the 1982 yearbook. The Administration often wondered if they would meet the June deadline or if the year 1990 would come first. The staffers are proud to say the yearbook was completed two weeks early.

The annual staff hopes you enjoy the annual as much as they enjoyed putting it together. Many hours were spent but then the staff members feel their school and classmates were worth the time. Time goes so quickly but memories last forever. The final four members hope they've captured many of your favorite times.

Pep Club

"Who's Gonna Win Tonight?" was a popular cheer by the Pep Club members many times this year. Even though the answer "We're Gonna Win this Game Tonight" was seldom appropriate the Pep Club members kept up their spirit. Besides keeping busy cheering the officers and sponsors had the task of rewriting the constitution to make a Bancroft-Rosalie Pep Club.

CHEERLEADERS

Smiling faces and shapely legs led the Bulldog fans through the 1981-82 sports season. It became evident by the end of the year that everyone's chicken was pretty funky and everyone's goose was pretty loose. The varsity squad consisted of Teresa Engelhart, Teresa Buchholz, Renee Abendroth and Renee Meyer followed by the j.v. with Angie Kjeldgaard, Lisa Raasch, Barb Rief, and Gail Bray. With a lot of spirit and help from the Pep Club they were determined the Bulldogs were "Gonna Get a Victory." Determination paid off when the Bulldogs proved to Rosalie that Bancroft is the "Great big cookie at the top of the jar."

Student Council

The student council this year was sponsored by Mr. Brabec with Brian Sorenson serving as Student Body President. The major achievement for the Student Council this year was regaining the privilege to have a Christmas Prom. The Student Council had the job of preparing for the dance with entertainment by Red Tag Disco. The dance was a great success. Another activity that the Student Council did was elect people to go and visit Rosalie's School for a day. They also met with the Rosalie students to help decide on the curriculum. This year's Student Council faced many unseen challenges and succeeded.

BOOK REVIEW

CAGES OF GLASS, FLOWERS OF TIME by Culin or the LOTTERY ROSE, which was your favorite book? These were just two of the books that hit the top of the charts at B.H.S. during the past year. The rest were: ORDINARY PEOPLE by Guest, LAURREN by Luger, LOVE BOMBERS by Miklowitz, MARGARET'S STORY by Price, ANN LANDERS ENCYCLOPEDIA, the Dana Fuller Ross series, INDEPENDENCE, NEBRASKA, WYOMING, and OREGON, and last but not least, TOLKIEN'S COMPANION by Tyler, which helped the seniors out greatly.

Mrs. Mehling cited that the favorite topics in the research field were: child abuse, careers, diet, World War II, and Vietnam.

Mrs. Mehling went on to say that the magazine that was most wanted was the February issue of SPORTS ILLUSTRATED, but goes on to say that quote "It never got past the office." unquote. The Library is still getting several orders of books in and is planning on expanding its Library in the coming year.

BUMP, SET, SPIKE!

The Lady Bulldogs 1981 season started out with two returning letter winners, Jill Samuelson and Teresa Munderloh. Coaching the Bulldogs this year was a new coach, Miss Donita Lampshire. Assisting her was Pat Logeman. The Bulldogs started out the season on the right track with a win against Rosalie. This was the last time the two teams would meet due to the merging of the two districts. Bancroft next showed off their talent against Ponca where they captured their second victory. The Lady Bulldogs next three games weren't as prosperous as the first games, as they lost to Wisner-Pilger, Homer, and Walthill. The losing streak was broken by a victory over the undefeated Snyder Warriors. Misfortune continued to take its toll as they lost to Beemer, Allen, Emerson-Hubbard, and Wakefield. Our final loss of the regular season was Mother's night, which proved to be a good opportunity to show off the talents of the whole team, but the opposition proved to be the stronger.

The Bulldogs then moved on to districts, where Bancroft bounced back from a first set loss of 12-15 to beat Winside 15-6, 15-9 and advanced past the district first round. In a quarterfinal match, perennial volleyball power Decatur brought an abrupt halt to the 1981 season for Bancroft, as they claimed a 15-5, 15-10 victory over the Lady Bulldogs. The losses were made up by the recognition of having Jill Samuelson and Teresa Munderloh cited on the Conference Honorable Mention list.

FOOTBALL

If there were an award to be given to the team having the most spirit and fortitude, it would be presented to the Bulldogs. There was a lot of potential and talent present on our team but the lack of experience was a real set back. Senior defenders, Rick Logeman, Joel Gardes, and Clark Petersen were forced to remain on the sidelines most of the season due to early injuries. The 1981 season started out with first year head coach, Mark Mullins. The first home game against Ponca brought fame to freshman, Tyler Russman as he ran in the Bulldog's only touchdown. A two point conversion was brought in by Joe Kjeldgaard and the game was aided by top defenders Rick Logeman and Ron Daberkow. The Bulldogs next traveled to Newcastle where they showed a strong offensive line but our streak of bad luck continued. Then came our injuries. The closest game was with Allen where we only lost by a small margin. Our homecoming game with Walthill brought high spirits but our hopes were put down by a stifling offense and a tough defense. The season ended with four Bulldogs making the honorable mention list. Honored offensively was senior Brian Sorensen, while defensively juniors, Joe Kjeldgaard and Ron Daberkow and sophomore Pat Bruning were honored. The following comment from Coach Mullins set high hopes for next year's season, "Next year will be the year of the Bulldog's."

First row: Student Manager — Troy Heaton, Clark Peterson, Rick Logeman, Joel Gardes, Brian Sorensen, and Student Manager — Darin Bonneau. GIRLS BASKETBALL

As the seconds ticked off the clock the Bancroft Lady Bulldogs knew they were going to win their first game of the season, over Lyons, and that it was only the second game they had played in the new season. Jill Samuelson stepped up to the line and made two free throws to cinch the win. After the game there was a lot of laughter, screams of happiness, and some tears of joy.

This was only one of the few times the Lady Bulldogs could feel this way.

The girls cage team started out the season with one goal on their mind, "We are going to win more than two games this season." This goal came true for them as they had a record of three wins and thirteen losses.

With not many followers behind them the Lady Bulldogs would not give up. They played many tough teams and the press was said to have "bothered" them in many of those games.

Losing out in the district game to Winside 36-27 proved to be disappointing but a stop at the Pizza Hut in Wayne cheered everyone up again.

Jill Samuelson and Paula Knuppel made All-Conference Honorable Mention as a result of their efforts during the season.

BOY'S BASKETBALL

Basketball was originally designed as a game to create interest in the gym during the winter months. The ball was a volleyball and peach baskets were used for hoops. Today, basketball has developed into a fast-moving, highly technical game for people of all ages.

Despite a tough one and fifteen season, Coach Craig Johnson's roundballers showed individual effort.

"Led by 6-5 senior, Dan Larsen, Bancroft put on their finest shooting exhibition of the season only to be handed another defeat . . . " This was one of the many quotes of the season, as the Bulldog team gave up many defeats by just a few points, to very tough teams.

The season was a long and rocky road as each game seemed to never cease with a win. It was thought that the Bulldog team would end its season and the Bulldog history with no wins. But that proved to be false when the Bulldogs played Rosalie in the District Tournament. The Bancroft cagers went into the game with the hope of winning. They led all the way through the game and the game was won with a score of 59-46.

The season was then brought to a halt by Walthill who won with a score of 75-51 over the Bulldog squad.

The season earned Dan Larsen a place on the All-Conference second team, and Joel Gardes received All Conference honorable mention.

BASEBALL

Cold weather, drizzling rain, and freezing wind caused a damper on the Bulldog's baseball season. Eleven diligent players ended the season with a two to seven record. Their first outing was a double-header with Wakefield. Unfortunately, Wakefields hot bats caused the Bulldogs to lose two to eleven in the first game and ten to eleven in the second game. During the second game Coach Johnson stated that he felt his team did a much better job at the plate and anxiously looked forward to the upcoming games.

Their second outing for the year started out in good fashion with things going pretty good till the fourth inning. This was the coldest weather the Bulldogs had to face all season, with a lack of pitchers and errors, the Bulldogs lost 15 to zero.

The next double-header with Wakefield had a different ending. Although the Bulldogs had some difficulty the first game losing zero to ten, the second game they came on strong. It was the Bulldogs first win of the season and Wakefield's first loss.

The Bulldogs upheld their winning streak as they moved on to beat Laurel three to two. The victory lifted BHS to two to four on the season record.

For the first time all season Bancroft had a clear and sunny day which caused their downfall with Wayne, who were unbeaten on the season. With some costly errors, Bancroft lost zero to ten the first game and two to six the second game.

Their next game was scheduled with Laurel, but rain caused the game to be cancelled.

The team then moved on to Districts where they played Laurel. They had some trouble hitting and ended up losing one to seven.

Bancroft did play some good baseball considering the size and average age of the team, however, too many mistakes cost them several games.

Rick Logeman was voted to the All-Conference team.

HOMECOMING

Homecoming started off with Spirit Week. Most everyone participated and there were some really "wild and crazy" outfits! Mr. Etelamaki was the highlight of the week with his slick-back hairdo and Buddy Holly Album. The pep rally downtown really got everyone fired up for the big game. After a tough game and a great second half, Bancroft only lost by thrity points. The halftime was highlighted by a fantastic performance by the high school band and the announcement of the Homecoming Royalty. Freshmen attendants included Angie (Bud) Kjeldgaard and Chris Beutler. Sophomore attendants were Jody Beutler and Marty (Giz) Roth. Jilly Samuelson and Joe Kjeldgaard were Junior attendants. The Senior class was represented by Teresa Munderloh, Paula Knuppel, Brian (George) Sorenson, and Rick Logeman. Reigning over the court were beautiful (ha! ha!) Queen Lori Stangel and King Joel Gardes. The great decor provided by the Juniors set off the theme, "BACK IN BLACK." The dance was a great success with music provided by K & K Sound until it was rudely interrupted by intruders and immediately called off. But as the old saying goes "All's fair in love and war."

JUNIOR-SENIOR PROM

Living A Life Of Illusions

After hours and hours of preparation, the Junior-Senior Prom came to life. The theme was "Living A Life of Illusions," and to many of the Juniors, getting ready for the prom was an illusion. It was carried out in the colors of purple and lavender. With many hands at work, the following were constructed: a purple and lavende striped gazebo, which had a white base floor that held a tank with a fountain. The tank also contained seven bullhead fish that added a little spice to the gazebo. A stream was also built which had grass all the way around it with lawn ornaments decorating it. The stream contained floating tissue paper flowers of purple, lavender and white. A white bridge went across the stream, and was trimmed in tissue paper flowers, and lavendar and purple streamers. There was a mural on the wall with a design of white clouds, a lavender rainbow, and an orchid sun, to add to the surroundings. A wishing well was put together to serve as a punch bowl, with a strobe light inside the well. After working for many hours and most of the night, prom was made presentable for the public.

MAY 1, 1982

The Junior-Senior banquet was held in these beautiful surroundings with the humorous, well-loved, and much enjoyed speaker being Carol Sundquist. The waiters and waitresses for this occasion were Tim Heaton, Pat Bruning, Mark Bonine, Marty Roth, Jody Beutler, Debbie Beutler, Deanna Soll, and Penny Hermelbracht. They were outfitted as butlers and maids. They served a delicious meal prepared by the Junior mothers. This included: an appetizer of tomato juice and crackers followed by a colorful assortment of foods in a salad bar, then ham and turkey, being the main course with baked potatoes and green bean casserole as side dishes. Strawberry and chocolate sundaes served for dessert were also enjoyed. There was a slight slip up in the serving of the dessert that had to be wiped up, right Marty? The waiters and waitresses also provided a skit for the enjoyment of the guests at the banquet.

The entertainment for the evening's dance was provided by Redd Tagg Discos of Kearney, alias Evil Knight of West Point in disguise. All in all, the evening turned out a big success with no leaks, right Juniors?

AWARDS NIGHT

Six seniors and two juniors walked off with top honors announced at the awards ceremony. A 6 p.m. dinner opened the night's activities and was followed with presentation of honors for students' achievements in the classroom and in extra curricular activities during the past year.

The coaches announced the most valuable players for their respective sports which included junior Ronnie Daberkow receiving his award from Mr. Mullins in football; senior Danny Larsen receiving his award from Mr. Johnson in basketball; senior Rick Logeman receiving his award from Mr. Johnson in baseball; junior Jill Samuelson receiving her award from Ms. Lampshire for both basketball and volleyball; and Connie Beutler receiving her award from Mr. Mullins in track.

Senior Brian Sorensen garnered the Kenny Metzger Memorial sports achievement award for his contributions to the Bulldog athletic program the past four years. He was presented the honor by BHS Athletic Director Milton Carter.

Senior Tom Johnson was named the recipient of this year's John Philip Sousa Award as the top senior band student by Theresa Caires.

Clark Petersen, also a senior, was awarded the 1982 Golden Hammer by Mr. Mullins for his accomplishments in industrial arts.

Four students were inducted into the Bulldog Chapter of National Honor Society in a brief ceremony prior to award presentations. Inducted were: Laurie Burhoop, Linda Zobel, Jill Samuelson, and Renee Meyer.

The awards banquet format was changed somewhat this year with class sponsors of grades seven through 12 presenting packets of honors to each student in respective classes. Awards ranged from athletic letters and certificates of participation, to pep club honors, attendance awards, music awards, etc.

"Harvey"

After practices, practices, and more practices, the cast and crew of Harvey was ready for opening night.

It all started when the halls were plastered with signs "Is he or isn't he?" Everyone was wondering what's going on, well it was to announce that the auditions for the all school play were the upcoming week. With many people auditioning, Ms. Nienaber had a hard time picking the 15 cast members for the play but those who were not on the cast were assigned to a crew. The cast started to work learning lines, finding costumes, working on sets, and perfecting their make-up.

As opening night approached and dress rehearsals started many unforgettable things happened. They were sure the boy's would never forget the 6:30 calls for "make-up" which they loved so well. They also had a tendency to walk into the girls locker room when the girls were changing. (Right Brian and Todd?) Marty Roth also added some excitement to dress rehearsal when he wore dark blue underwear under his white pants. Todd Heaton was having trouble across stage, he slipped and his feet came out from under him ending up in a heap. After all this happened one would think that Ms. Nienaber would have given up on the play, but she didn't. As opening day came closer, many more funny surprises were added. On the day before the opening, the boys decided the last scene needed something, so a big syringe with a large fake needle was added. The performances were truly a work of art with no fumbles, mistakes, or surprises. Well, that's what everyone hoped for, but there were a few bluppers. Instead of Uncle Elwood it ended up Uncle "Harvey" and "Poosa" instead of Pooka. Paula Knuppel also had a little problem saying a line and a "Bla" came out and left everyone laughing. These are not all the fun and strange things that happened on the set. It wasn't all fun however, a lot of hard work and effort went into the play by both the cast and the crew.

Angie Kjekdgaard

With scared faces and painted on smiles, 15 Freshmen walked in on their first day of HIGH SCHOOL. One of the first things they did on this day was to elect officers. They were soon to find Chris Beutler elected President, Kirk Metzger Vice-President, Leannette Suhr Treasurer, Barb Rief Secretary, and Angie Kjeldgaard and Rhonda Grone Student Council.

Next they moved on to their class project. When picking their project they took into consideration their beautiful looks and chose to do a Haunted House. Their Haunted House was a great success as they took in $260, and had fun scaring everyone that went through.

Ghosts and Goblins seemed to be the theme of the Freshmen this year as they also spent time writing and taping ghost stories with sound effects. As if the haunted house and the ghost stories were not enough, the Freshmen also got to make UFO's for extra credit. In the midst of all this ghostly business the Freshman girls were trying their hands at domestic skills.

"Take a Sleigh Ride Through Freshmen Fashions," was the theme of the Freshmen Fashion Show. At the show they modeled fashions they had sewn in Home Ec class and also fashions from Canarsky's Department Store.

After fashions they took to interior decorating. Every girl created and designed her own room. In this project they used the fundamentals and principles of design. Furnishings in their rooms went from canopy's to water beds to bay windows.

While the girls were busy in Home Ec, the boys were equally busy in Shop. Some of the projects they made include wooden bowls, desk, TV rack, coffee table, and a bird house.

As you can tell from the above projects this class shows great potential for the future. The Freshmen of 1981-82 have adjusted to High School extremely well. Any fears that might have been present at the beginning of the year are no longer evident in their spooky actions.

SOPHOMORE

The sophomore class of 1981-82 started off their year with the election of officers. Marla Nolting was elected President, Penny Hermelbracht Vice-President, Marty Roth Secretary, Tina Bird Treasurer, and Gail Bray and Tim Heaton were elected to the Student Council.

The sophomores were a little slower than everyone else because at the time of the printing of this page, they still had not done a class project. Some honors received by the class were from Patty Redding and Gail Bray who were chosen to represent Bancroft in the state speech contest.

Eight "lucky" sophomores were also chosen as waiters and waitresses for the Junior-Senior Prom. They included Debbie Beutler, Jody Beutler, Penny Hermelbracht, and Deanna Soll for the waitresses. Waiters were Mark Bonine, Pat Bruning, Tim Heaton, and Marty Roth.

The major assignment they undertook was the publication of THE FORCED ASSIGNMENT. They were handed out to all high school students to entertain them over another long noon hour. More information on the paper is written below.

Dear Gizz,

How come the school's toilet paper is so rough? I mean, have you ever sat on a school toilet, then when you get to the paper part, you wished you could have waited until you got home? I wish they would do something about the sandpaper for toilet paper, don't you?

TOO SORE to SIT

Dear Too Sore,

You're supposed to bring your own toilet paper. That paper on the wall is for the graffiti that we all write.

The Junior Class started out the year with 17 students. They struggled through the year with their sponsors, Mark Mullins and Mary Petersen. Their project this year was a slave auction which turned out a profit of $1,282 in return for 8 hours of work from each slave. Their next task was decorating for Homecoming which turned out to be a very "glittering" experience. The attendants representing the Junior Class at Homecoming were Jill Ann Samuelson and Joseph Dean Kjeldgaard. The rest of the year proved to be a busy time with term papers, prom fights, the many history reports, and the all school play. The major project for the year was Prom. "Living a Life of Illusions" was the final choice for the theme which was carried out in the colors purple and lavender. With a few leaky problems and many overnight guests, prom was finally finished. As the last prom for Bancroft, the Juniors felt it was a big success.

Those classmates receiving special recognition were Boy's and Girl's Staters, Linda Zobel and Todd Heaton, with Mark Elsasser as the Boy's Alternate. Jill Samuelson received the honor of being named second team All-Conference in volleyball, and was named to the first team All-Area by the Fremont Tribune in basketball. Jill Samuelson also received the Most Valuable Player in volleyball and basketball. Ron Daberkow received the Most Valuable Player in football. Others receiving honors were those inducted to the Honor Society. They were: Laurie Burhoop, Renee Meyer, Jill Samuelson, and Linda Zobel. All in all the Juniors raked in many awards.

The Juniors did many exciting things in their classes this year. These included the girls in Biology II class who got pricked by Mr. Brabec as he tested for their blood types. They also had the experience of experimenting with a hog's lungs and heart, and they did surgery on a rabbit. The boys worked on many of the prom decorations in shop, such as, their beautiful bridge and lovely gazebo.

SENIORS

SENIORS

Summing Up The Year

The senior year for the Class of 1982 held many memorable events. The Seniors began their final year not realizing that they would be the last Bancroft High School graduating class. Once aware of this fact the senior class began to make history.

Entering the doors of Bancroft High, the 16 seniors started initiating five new teachers. Initiation was a bit rough for the new teachers, as the senior class seemed to feel an emptiness without many of last year's teachers. The emptiness soon was lessened as the activities of the new year began to fill up many hours.

Volleyball and football were the first activities and many of the seniors were involved. As the season moved on, injury plagued many. Rick Logeman, Joel Gardes, and Clark Petersen became side liners while Brian Sorenson kept the senior name as part of the football team.

The next activity was Homecoming of 1981-1982. Choosing Homecoming royalty from an entirely royalty class our royalty became a royally tough decision after hours of contemplation. Joel Gardes was named Homecoming King with Lori Stangel as Homecoming Queen. Attendants were Paula Knuppel, Bebbie Bassett, Brian Sorenson and Rick Logeman. The royal family was accepted and loved royally for the entire year.

Loving royalty, the seniors found the class project quite a challenge as they were instantly thrown into the life of slavery. Working together extremely well, the seniors served over 200 people soup and pies, making $930.27. The Home Economics classes added their own attaction to the event by selling the pies they had made. The entire night was a large success and an enjoyable time for all who attended, especially for the winners of the senior raffle for two hog halves.

Christmas Prom was the next of the scheduled events. The senior class enjoyed the dance and thanks to the Student Council for making the event possible.

The New Year came next and the class finally had the chance to experience 1982, the number they had been writing everywhere for so many years. To start off the New Year the seniors found many events to keep them busy. Basketball season was upon them as well as the all school play, which many seniors took part in. Also, baseball was about to begin, plus Prom and the most looked forward to event . . . sneak day! The last but the most prepared for and ready for event, the senior class graduated from Bancroft High School on May 14, 1982 at 7:30.

Mixed among the extra activities daily classes kept each senior busy. English assignments occupied many hours of the seniors year. The main project of the year was reading and studying J.R. Tolkien's books, THE HOBBIT, and THE FELLOWSHIP OF THE RING. Hobbits, goblins, trees, and forests visited the English room during the Tolkien unit. When not occupied with English, the senior boys found time to be creative in shop. The major projects of the year were: Clark Petersen's entertainment center and three-wheeler, Chuck Muller's air boat, Tom Johnson's china closet, Mike Kai's coffee table, Rick Logeman's engine stand, and Dan Larsen's night table, lamp, and hall tree. When not busy in shop, each senior boy found time to make a quilt in the Independant Living Class. As the boys kept occupied with woods and quilts, the girls explored foreign cookery and culture. Teresa Munderloh showed her talents in the art area by creating many beautiful paintings. Civics class gave the seniors a clear look at the judicial system as they held a court trial, and after many hours of testifying the trial ended in a hung jury. Math, science, and study halls occupied any feared free moments the senior class might have experienced.

Career planning, college searching, and future plans were also a major part of the seniors last year. 14 of 16 graduates had plans for future education. A majority of the 14 had college's selected and had gotten financial assistance taken care of by graduation night. As the class of 1982 left Bancroft High School on the evening of May 14, many tears were shed, many hugs were given, and the ending of 13 years of school brought many doubts and fears plus joy and excitement. The class of 1982 did leave their mark in history as they departed to their new beginning.

DES MOINES HERE WE COME!

A few months into the Senior year a big class meeting was held. This meeting would decide where the class of 82 would venture off to on the last Senior sneak trip that Bancroft High would ever take. With an almost unanimous vote, the 1982 Seniors would sneak off to Des Moines, Iowa. The class president, Chuck Muller, got all the information and the class decided where they would go on their tours. Call after call, the whole thing was set up. The first place the class of 16 would go was the Botanical Gardens, the second stop would be the John Deere factory for the boys, and the girls would go shopping. Motel rooms were no problem. The Seniors would stay at the Best Western Barvarian House. The bus? Well, after convincing the administration that it just wouldn't be the same without a chartered bus (instead of the school bus) they got Arrow Stage Lines out of Norfolk.

Everything was set, the school board passed their itinerary. The week before they were to set off minor problems arose. The sponsors, the original set of sponsors, weren't going to be able to go, so they had to find a new set. Finally Bonnie and Lloyd Abbott courageously said that they would go. Also, when the President checked to see if their rooms would be ready, they had no rooms! The motel had lost their reservations, so they had to find more rooms for the class, but that was quickly taken care of.

Thursday, the sixth of May, the Seniors were quite hyper and excited. That night was spent painting the town, highways, and the blacktops, and then waiting for the bus the next morning. They all gathered in front of the school early Friday morning, 5:30 to be exact. The bus could be heard from afar and the Seniors could see the big bus coming down school house hill. When the door opened the class was happy to see the driver was Jesse Thompson, the same bus driver the Seniors had the year before. The 20 member party got in the 47 passenger bus and off they went to Des Moines. Their first stop was in Onawa at the Happy Chef for breakfast. Mile after mile, one by one, the bus became a "zzz" zone. Stopping at a rest stop about 40 miles out of Des Moines, the bus started coming alive. Counting the miles on the interstate signs, the class realized that they were almost there. At the conclusion of the Botanical Gardens tour, it was unanimous that they could have done without the tour guides. Next was a quick stop to eat and then Chuck Muller and Mr. Johnson went to see if the class could get into their rooms. They came back with good news and bad news. The good news was they had their old rooms back, the bad news was they couldn't get into them, well, at least not until 3:30. The bus then took the boys to the John Deere factory and the girls to the shopping mall. Checking in and finding the rooms was done quickly because everyone had the same idea . . . to hit the pool. The rest of the evening was spent running around the motel, swimming after hours, a supper in the motel restaurant, playing video games and taking unexpected dips in the pool. Sleeping arrangements were some what crowded as some people fell asleep still on the go. The morning came early because word was out that the hot tub was now in working order. Swimming was again on the agenda, but this time it was forceable swimming and with their clothes on. After drying off, and packing clothes and cleaning up their rooms, they were off to Adventure Land. They spent four hours at Adventure Land riding rides, eating and drinking, and buying souvenirs. The log ride and the bumper cars were among the favorites of the Class of 82.

When they boarded the bus they were finally on their way home. But, they had six more passengers in Winnie the Pooh form, and feelers on the head were the new fad. They made their last stop for supper at Walnut, Iowa. They returned at 7:30 p.m. back to Bancroft.

The class of 82 realized that these memories they hold are the last that their class will have together, and their memories of yesterday will last a lifetime. These were the best of times.

Brian Sorensen doing as little as possible. 2. Everyone waiting to reboard the bus for a funfulled day at Adventure Land.

TONIGHT'S THE NIGHT

The Seniors last week of school started off with Baccalaureate on Sunday, May 9, 1982. They should have been grateful for the semi-sunny day as it was the last one of the month. When they finally reached their seats after the dreaded march in, Pastor Gerkin gave the Invocation. Girls glee then sang "Graduation Day," and were followed by Pastor Gerken's sermon. Ms. Nienaber, Ms. Caires, and Ms. Lampshire gave the seniors some words of wisdom through the song, "The Impossible Dream." After the Benediction in which some of the Seniors forgot to take their hats off, (right guys), the class had their processional out of the gym. It was at this time that the Seniors realized they were one step closer to the day they were all waiting for — Graduation.

As Graduation day dawned, not so bright and clear, they all realized that this was their day. Practicing for graduation in the gym, the class of 82 was prepared for any possible problems, especially rain. As the clock ticked off the minutes and Graduation kept getting closer, so also did the dark rain clouds. About a half an hour before the big event was supposed to start the heavens let loose and pouring rain began falling. At 7:30 p.m. 16 seniors took their places and the ceremony began. Mr. Carter presented the honors for the Class of 82. "16 awards from a class of 16," noted Mr. Carter. Lori Stangel received the Student Council Award. The Henrietta Larson Memorial Award was won by Tom Johnson. Debbie Bassett received the Jaycettes Scholarship. Teresa Munderloh was a double winner, winning the Nebraska American Legion Auxiliary Scholarship, and a Saint Luke's Nursing Scholarship. Lori Zobel was also a double winner as she received a Trustee Scholarship award to Doane College and an Outstanding Achievement award from Doane College. The Board of Governors Scholarship from Northeast Technical Community College was awarded to Connie Beutler. Mike Kai received the Board of Governors Alternate Scholarship from Northeast Technical Community College. Joni schmeckpaper was awarded a scholarship to Bahner Beauty School. A scholarship to Norfolk Technical Community College, offered by the Norfolk Randering Works was presented to Clark Petersen. Paula Knuppel won a scholarship from the Elkhorn Valley Association for Special Education Teachers. Jean Venner received a Saint Luke's Nursing Scholarship. Brian Sorensen reaped in the honors as he was awarded the Kenny Metzger Athletic Achievement Award, the Presidential Scholarship, and an Endowment Scholarship both from Nebraska Wesleyan. He also was admitted into the Honors program for high achievements at the University of Nebraska, and was named an honor student. He kept his average above three point six to achieve this award. The Class History was then read by Valedictorian Brian Sorensen. Mr. Bennett then presented the senior class to the President of the Bancroft-Rosalie school board, Diane Nottlemann, who presented the Seniors with their diplomas. With great pride the Class of 82 turned their tassels and became the last graduating class of Bancroft High School. Graduate Teresa Munderloh read the class future and Pastor James Gerken ended the ceremony with the Benediction. As the band started playing the graduates took their first walk into the future.

WE'LL MAKE HISTORY

THE BEST IS YET TO BE

As wonderful as school days are —
So full of fun and laughter —
The best and richest times you'll know
Will come a few years after . . .
So close the door behind you now
And as you turn away
Review the dreams and plans you've made
And hold them fast today . . .
Walk proudly as you move along,
Feel young and strong and free,
And let your heart repeat these words —
"The best is yet to be!"
